Over 40 members attended the first of a series of briefings at Henrietta St Station in Birmingham to discuss the pending pension dispute.

Following a presentation by Ray Salmon, UNISON Full Time Officer, a full debate was held on the Government's proposals to change the pension scheme.

It was agreed unanimously, that industrial action was the only way to prevent us all from working longer, paying more and getting less from our pensions in the future.

Further meetings have been scheduled and an open invitation is made to any groups of staff who wish to hear the information first hand. Anyone who wants to arrange a meeting is advised to contact your local UNISON Rep., who can liaise with the Full Time Officer.
